

DDC-Alive at 25® Parent Program Online

Don't Let Your Teen Become Another Statistic!

Every day, 10 teens die and 745 are injured in traffic crashes. Now you can partner with your teen to help keep him or her alive.

Alive at 25 Parent Program Online

Parents: You can build a safe-driver role-model relationship with your teen drivers through the National Safety Council's® DDC-Alive at 25 Parent Program Online. Based on the three-hour classroom course, this highly-interactive two-hour web-based program is designed for parents of teenagers who will be getting their driver's license or have recently gotten their driver's license. The program provides the strategies you need to keep teenage drivers safe during the most dangerous activity they will face as young adults.

what parents and teens will learn

- A realistic picture of the risks a teen driver faces while behind the wheel, based on solid scientific evidence
- Practical solutions to reduce the unique risks and hazards teen drivers face
- Parent/teen partnership, from learning to drive through independent driving
- Understanding your teen's need for defensive driving training
- Graduated Driver Licensing and related laws for safety belts, speeding, alcohol and drugs
- Example of an effective Parent/Teen Driver Contract, and discussion on how the agreement helps manage the driving experience

course description

Attend the Alive at 25 Parent Program in the comfort and privacy of your home ... Take it online! Convenient 24/7 access works for even the busiest parents. The popular bookmark feature allows you to return to the course as often as you like. Links to other resources, including state government websites on teenage driving laws, are included.

course benefits

Nearly 40% of all teen deaths in the United States are the result of traffic crashes. Use our online program to reduce dangerous risks and address the uncertainties and anxieties you may have about your young driver. Partner with him or her to reinforce basic-driving and good decision-making skills.
